

Passports and Citizenship

The Consular Section in Freetown accepts applications for regular validity passports, and sends them to the U.S. for printing. Passports can usually be collected within two weeks of submission of the application. The consular section may issue limited validity passports for emergency travel – but we urge you to plan ahead. First-time passport applicants and applicants whose passports have expired or been lost or stolen must prove their citizenship and identity. US citizens who travel extensively may ask for extra visa pages. Passport applications may only be submitted during U.S. Citizen Services hours. American Citizens should ensure that the two passport-sized photographs conform to the required standard of 2x2 inches, showing full face with both ears exposed.

Note: All routine consular services at the U.S. Embassy Freetown, Sierra Leone are provided by appointment only to U.S. citizens visiting or residing in Sierra Leone. Emergency cases (such as medical emergencies, deaths or arrests involving American citizens) will still be handled on a walk-in basis during normal Embassy hours or after hours by calling the Embassy duty officer.
